The European Society for Translation Studies has been serving the Translation Studies community since it was founded in Vienna in 1992.

Its aims, as stated in its Constitution, are

- to foster research in translation and interpreting
- to promote further education for teachers of translation and interpreting
- to offer advice on the training of translators and interpreters
- to facilitate contacts between T & I practitioners and relevant academic institutions

The EST is an international network of translation and interpreting scholars

The EST organizes Translation Studies congresses every 3 years

The EST rewards Young TS scholars through its Young Scholar Prize

The EST supports graduate students through its Summer School Scholarship

The EST helps translation and interpreting research centres through its Book Purchase Grant

The EST helps TS scientific events through its Events Grant

The EST publishes a bi-annual Newsletter

EST Congresses on Translation Studies were held in:

Prague, 1995
Granada, 1998
Copenhagen, 2001
Lisbon, 2004
Ljubljana, 2007
Leuven, 2010

The next EST congress will be in Germersheim in 2013

After joining EST, members

- become part of a community of scholars who actively foster the development of the young discipline of Translation Studies
- interact with many TS scholars, both young and experienced
- are entitled to discounts from TS publishers
- are eligible for EST grants and awards
- pay reduced fees when attending EST congresses
